

The world is in crisis. Solutions abound.
Join us to create a bridge to a regenerative future.

We're bringing forth ideas worth sharing. Summit participants will collaborate across sectors to develop action-oriented solutions that deliver results and build a movement. This will be a conference like no other, a 3-day gathering where the talent on both sides of the microphone will rally around a new economic narrative, a regenerative approach to capitalism that delivers personal well-being and shared prosperity on a healthy planet.

The Regenerative Future Summit will be an engaging, strategy-setting event. An anticipated 300 executives, entrepreneurs, community leaders and change agents will reframe "the economy" and develop action plans to implement a regenerative future. These plans will engage leading companies and early adopting communities to chart a new course for capitalism.

May 15-17, 2017
University of Colorado, Boulder

Summit participants will develop action-oriented solutions to catalyze the movements necessary to transform the economy. A robust social media campaign and an interactive Internet platform will engage thousands more during the summit and serve as a hub for implementation in the years to come. Promotion for the event will reach more than hundreds of thousands of people who care about more authentic ways of doing business. Plenary sessions will be live-streamed. Small working groups will set the strategy for realizing a new economic narrative. On-demand content will be available before, during and after the Summit. Bloggers are invited and encouraged to join in the conversation.
